ANDREA GREEN BROWNE

Writer Member

Andi Green is a songwriter, music practitioner, and cultural innovator whose career spans more than three decades across Jamaica's creative and corporate landscape. From her early days as a child voice actress for Grace and Colgate, to becoming Jamaica's original female jingle rapper with Virgin Artistes, Andi has consistently broken barriers and set new standards in the industry.

Her journey includes:

- Music & Corporate Leadership: General Marketing as Managing Director with Penthouse Records, corporate roles with the Jamaica Football Federation (JFF), Coordinator of Corporate Sales and the Game DAY Magazine, FIFA Game Day Announcer, Press Officer, and organizer of Reggae Boyz fan flights with Air Jamaica.

ANDREA GREEN BROWNE

Writer Member

Cont'd

- Creative Contributions: Founder of the Buju Banton Fan Club (1991), presenter of The Penthouse Showcase on IRIE FM, and recording artiste with JahJahJah All Stars Reggae in Japanese. She was invited to join TOKYO FM after touring with Japanese dancehall stars.

- Writing & Media: Commercial scriptwriter for Hi-Lo Food Stores, Hardware & Lumber, Harmony Wellness, Shur Power Generac Generators, and campaign writer for political candidates in the USVI. Co-Writer of Television Jamaica's theme "TV Concerto" Actress in Dancehall Queen's viral TikTok "How Your Beer So Expensive."

- Community & Advocacy: Founding member of the Judy Mowatt Outreach Foundation, Marketing & CX Officer to Hardware & Lumber Limited, and a founding member of the Jamaica Federation of Musicians. She also served as a former director of JACAP, leading the successful Get A JACAP Licence campaign and redesigning the Annual Report format in 2012

THANK YOU